

In-surgery teeth whitening process

An initial consultation and examination will be completed. Only when you are dentally healthy can whitening be completed. Another appointment may be required.

An impression is taken to create your whitening trays that you will take home at the end of treatment. Photographs are taken so we can compare your end tooth colour.

You will have your whitening session to maximise the brightness of your teeth. Bring your own headphones and music to enjoy in surgery.

When completed, you will be given whitening gel to use at home to improve the brightness further. A review appointment will allow us to compare the first photograph with your new bright smile.

Take home whitening process

The same as above, but without the session to maximise the brightness of your teeth in surgery.
